

Financial Support

In these tight and uncertain economic times, our school is mindful of the costs associated with educating children. The cost of providing books, clothing and other school resources begins to add up. Then there is the inevitable cost of educational excursions, school camps and various performances. This year we are reviewing very carefully the added activities and expenses and ensuring that they are absolutely essential for student learning. We are also trying to ensure that no child is disadvantaged by cost. Families who may find themselves temporarily in need of assistance due to economic circumstances are invited to contact the principal or the school business manager to discuss ways to ensure their child is able to participate in the planned activity and the school is still able to meet its financial obligations. You can arrange a confidential appointment simply by calling the school office or emailing info@jindaleess.eq.edu.au
